

Siemens Management Consulting (SMC) is the internal top management consultancy of Siemens.

With about 160 consultants in three offices (Munich, New York and Beijing), we support Siemens businesses worldwide in competition for market leadership – from power stations, microelectronics, and network technology to consumer goods and services.

We always take a global, integral view of our business.

Because of the varied requirements of our clients, we work in all fields of consulting, e.g. strategy, M&A, benchmarking, restructuring, innovation.

Providing successful consulting for the top management of the Siemens group is only one of SMC's goals; another is creating a core of excellent management talents for the organization. SMC offers its employees a concrete and attractive career path into one of the world's most innovative global companies.

Do you excel in everything you do? Then join our team as a consultant with SMC.

If you graduated from university with outstanding grades, you'll start with us as a consultant.

In this role, you'll be part of a close-knit team focused on advising senior management of Siemens operating companies on international projects around the globe. Since our consultants are responsible for working closely with internal clients on a day-to-day basis, they play a pivotal role in delivering value.

Qualifications / job requirements:

- A university degree with excellent grades (Master's Degree/German Diplom), ideally supplemented with an additional qualification such as an MBA/PhD
- Practical experience:
 - Economics background:
2–3 relevant internships in a Siemens-related industry and/or consulting
 - Engineering/natural sciences/medical background:
initial practical experience, preferably in industry and/or consulting
- At least six months of international experience
- Fluency in English and at least conversational skills in German
- Excellent analytical and strategic thinking
- Management skills facilitating effective and efficient delivery of project modules
- Skill set and mindset to thrive in an entrepreneurial and truly international working environment
- Energy and a sense of humor

If we've sparked your interest, take the next step in building a great career – as a consultant for Siemens Management Consulting.

Send your completed application to:
recruiting.smc@siemens.com

Activate your Potential.

Siemens
Management
Consulting

Siemens Management Consulting

Join our Team.

www.siemens.com/smc

SIEMENS